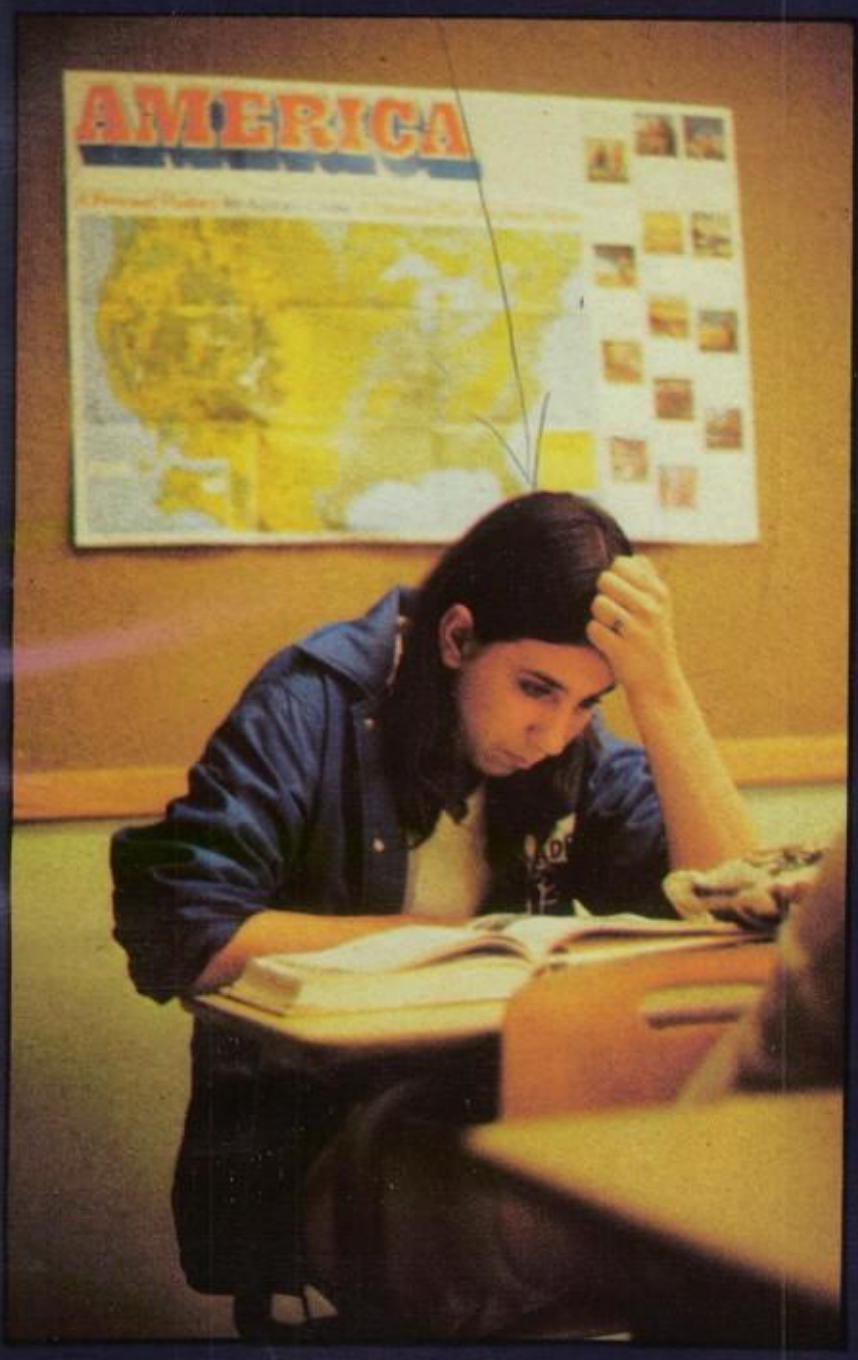
• DAYS OF FUTURE



Readying for the unexpected,
Fearing the unknown, and Recollecting memorable happenings
Make looking ahead
And looking back
A continuous circle of emotions.
Anticipating what will become then
Remembering those anticipations,
Only moments apart yet
As varied as sunrise and sunset,
Will make our lives swell
With the days of future passed.

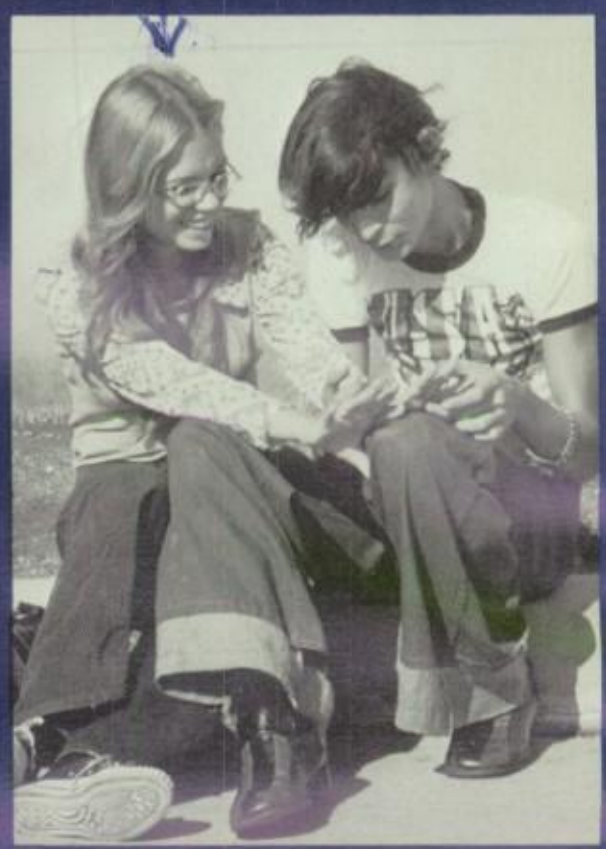
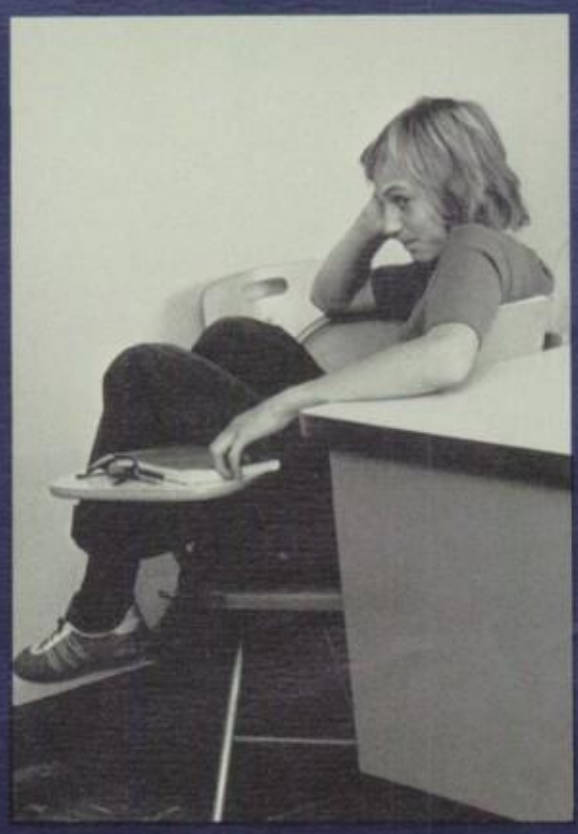
• STUDENT LIFE • ST





Although four years may seem like a long time, for a former Morton student high school was a very short period in his life. A Morton graduate looks back upon a time crammed full with friends, teachers, dates, homework, prom, and graduation and feels both happiness and sorrow. It might have very well contained some of the most precious and treasured memories in his life. Everyone and everything that came in contact with the student left some kind of imprint on his life. After graduation a whole new world of events and feelings awaited him. Combining his dear memories with the unpredictable future, he realized the days of future passed.

Before going to her locker at 8:10, Mary Savakis (above, right) takes a quick nap in the large cafeteria.

Sue Piha (right) takes advantage of the quiet and empty cafeteria tables to catch up on some studying.

Eight-Thirty Marks the Starting of School Days

For most students the beginning of a school day was at 8:30, but for some with "0" hour, the day started at 7:30. After arriving at school on foot or by means of a car, bus, or bicycle, students not attending "0" hour classes passed time waiting for admission into the building at 8:10 by sitting in the big cafeteria and either doing homework, adjusting make-up, or chatting with friends. First hour classes officially began at 8:30; general announcements for the student body over the P.A. system usually consumed the first few, class minutes before another school day began with the first hour studies.

A bright, afternoon sun (below) shines down through the blinds and casts designs over Mary Myrtle's thoughts.

Lunch Affords Students Time to Meet and Eat

Almost every student in school looked forward to lunch. Not only did it give him a chance to satisfy his hunger, but it also allowed him a chance to meet with his friends. During lunch a student also had the opportunity to buy tickets for school events from the ticket office and purchase equipment needed for his classes from the supply store. In his afternoon classes the student's thoughts intermingled academics with thoughts of dismissal. At 3:10 he with the bulk of the student body turned to the outside world to complete his afternoon events.

Activities, Sports Claim Students' Twilight Time

Although the bulk of the student body left the Morton building by 3:15, many stayed behind to be found in the classrooms, sports areas, and halls. Some remained in the school simply to meet with friends, to enjoy a few moments of solitude, or to do some homework. Others remained to participate in West's activity program. This past year Morton offered twenty-four clubs, two plays, and two publications to appeal to students' interests. The athletic program claimed the rest of the remaining students with its thirty teams.

School Activities Among After School Interests

Evening hours and weekends were very important to all students. These were the times for which no teacher would dictate or designate what a student was to do. Nevertheless many students chose to return to the school to attend football and basketball games, plays, concerts, and playnights. But school-sponsored activities were by no means the only recreations in the students' lives. Singles and couples could be seen everywhere. Movies, concerts, bowling, tennis, and parties were some of many activities that filled leisure hours in the evening.

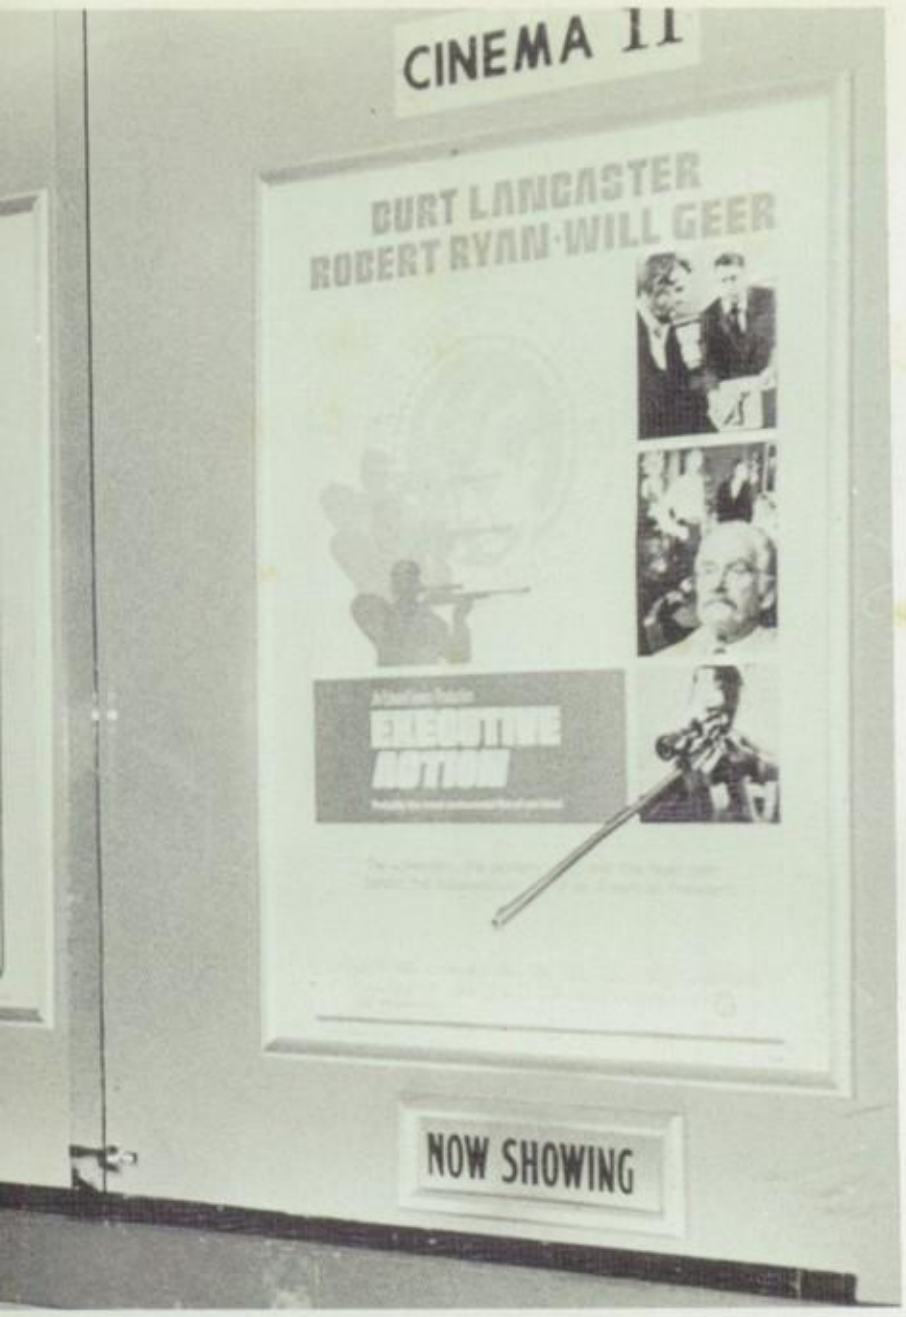
Also at the M-Club playnight, Tom Kariott (below) works in the refreshment stand by pouring soda.



Protected by raincoats and umbrellas, students, parents, faculty, and alumni (right) wander aimlessly through the parking lot.

Hopeful that the rain will soon stop, Pam Goode and Debbie Jasutis (below) patiently wait for the parade to begin.

With the spirit that infested everyone on homecoming, the crowd (below, right) in the stands cheer the Falcons to a win.

'Rhymes and Romances' Theme for Homecoming

"I just love homecoming." Although this was not everyone's opinion, many of the students who became involved in building floats, attending the football game, and preparing for the dance carried this feeling. Queen Rose Brkan was crowned at a coronation ceremony overrun by Mother Goose characters. Even though rain and drizzle dampened the parade, floats, and some spirits, a good crowd of both students and alumni turned out at the game to cheer the Falcons to a 14-6 victory over Addison Trail. The queen and her court, Joanne Juricek, Jayne Kaiser, Jackie Kec, Mary Ryan, Laura Stacho, and Lorie Stumpo, reigned over the dance, "Rhymes and Romances."

Kismet, Junior Olympics, 'Ides' Winter Highlights

Three important events stood out during the winter season. Saturday, November 3, 1973, brought to a close the career of a nationally known band that had its beginning at Morton. The Ides of March, many of whom were alumni of West, played their last concert here before a large crowd of students, friends, and faculty. Kismet, the combined production of both Morton high schools, ran a very successful five nights in November. The play was about a poet in olden Bagdad. December 1 was the date of the annual Junior Olympics.

At their last concert, the Ides of March (top) bring the crowd to their feet by doing a fifties' medley.

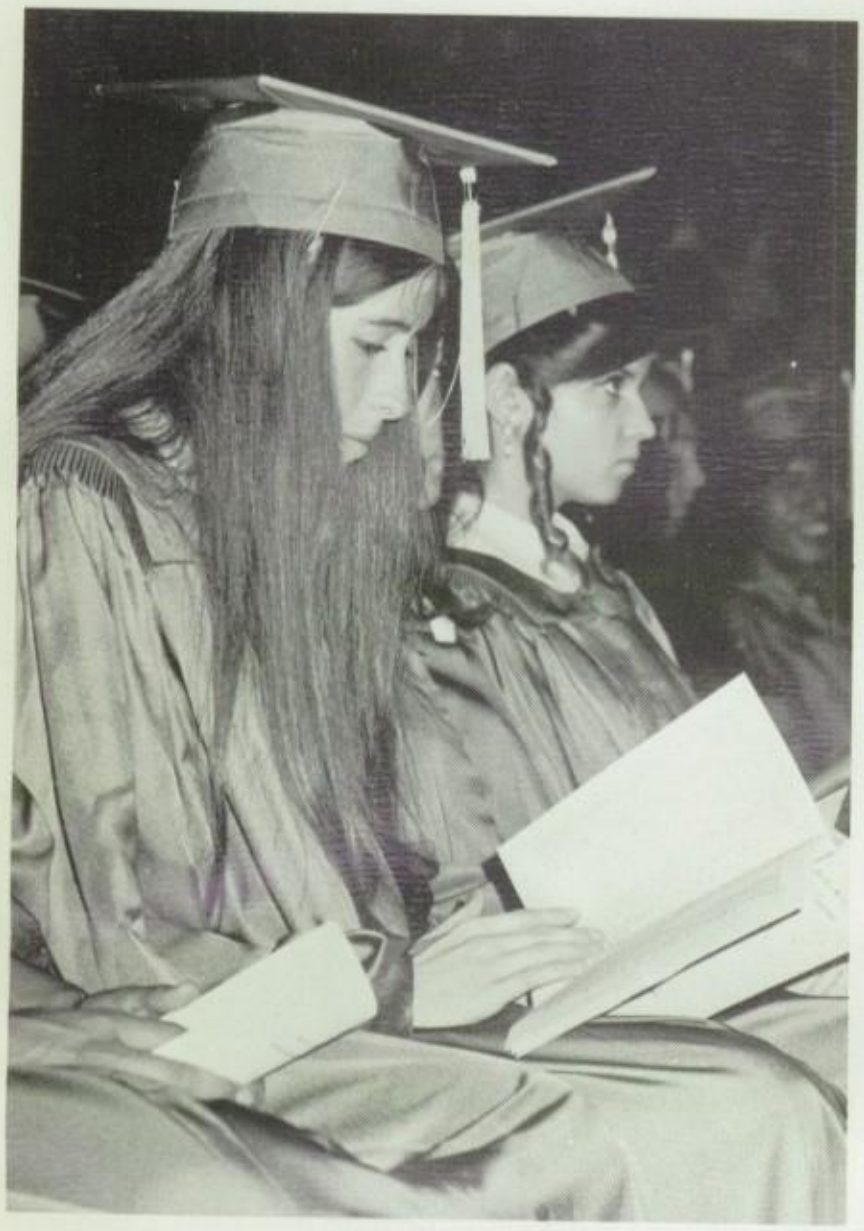
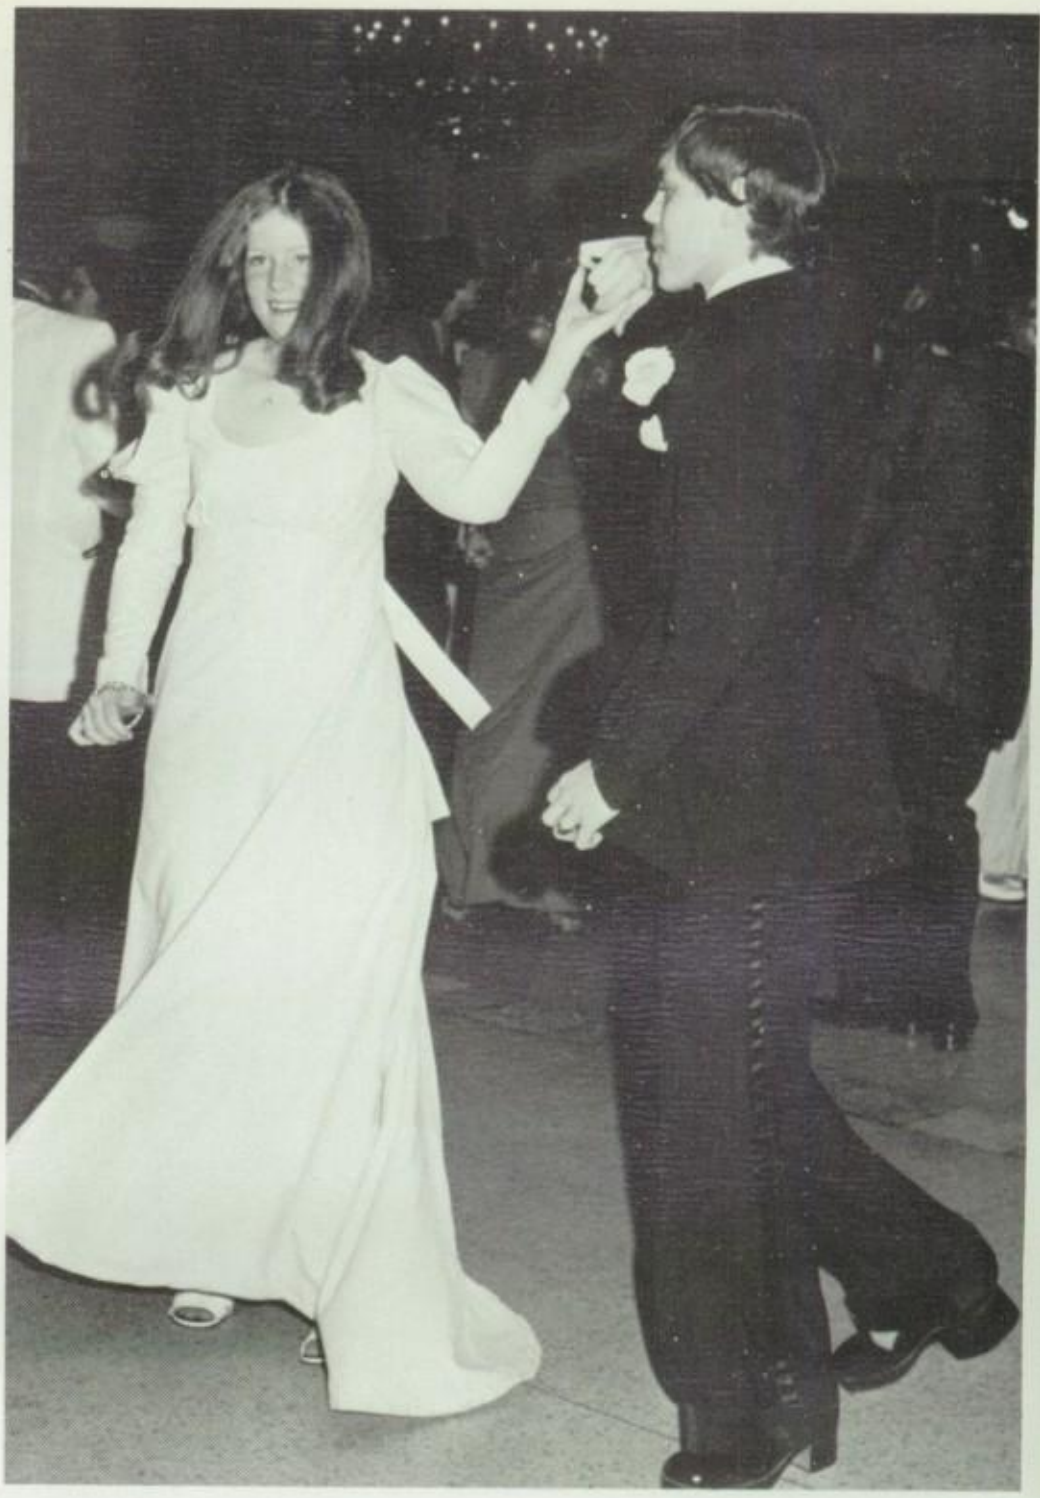
"Us little guys fight back" is the sophomore slogan sported by Kris Pabst and Jodi Johnson (above).





Memories of the past four years rush through Janice Michelsen's mind (above) as she glances over her program.

A fast beat and a good tempo provide the right dancing music for Barb Scaman and George Kalas (above, right).

Larry Zdarsky (right), after being picked from many other students, recites his speech for the senior graduation.

Class of '73 Concludes Four Memorable Years

Two traditional events highlighted last spring's activities. Adorned in beautiful dresses and sharp tuxedos, couples gathered at the Chateau Royal in Chicago to spend a pleasant evening dancing to the music of Ross Anderson's orchestra at the 1973 Prom, "Beginnings." Also last spring, the class of 1973 finished its four years with its graduation on June 5. Dr. W. I. Hutchison gave diplomas to over 700 graduates as parents, relatives, and friends watched in the boys' gym and through closed circuit television broadcast to the auditorium.

• ACADEMICS • ACAI

Early each morning, students rose to attend school. English, gym, history, art, math, and science were class versions of some subjects that filled their academic lives. Students could learn the value and importance of our past in history courses while they debated over current events and issues in contemporary society or sociology. They expressed emotions and latent talents in the art courses such as photography, painting, and pottery and learned valuable data for coping with the technical and physical world in math and science. English and foreign language courses expanded their knowledge needed for necessary communication with others. All their courses became part of them and their futures.

English Electives Permit In-Depth Presentations

Format changes in the junior and senior English curriculum met with favorable responses from both students and teachers. Separating the courses into quarter year classes and intermingling juniors with seniors created a greater diversity among offered electives. The courses through six main subject categories—writing, media, speech, reading, American literature, and British and world literature—covered thoroughly the various aspects of English and allowed teachers to present a more-in-depth approach to the students.

Diane Halas (above, left) concentrates on the changing grammar usage involved in an exercise in her Language in Society book.

Third and Fourth Year Language Classes Merge

Reductions in foreign language enrollment caused the merger of third and fourth year classes in both French and Spanish. The number of beginning classes in these and other foreign languages also dropped. However the lower enrollment did not lessen the enthusiasm of the participating, foreign language students for their annual, ethnic holidays. The German classes once again enjoyed entertaining their guests at the Oktoberfest, the French classes had their Mardi Gras, and the Spanish classes held a special Christmas program.

The first year French class (above, left) takes time from everyday recitation for some singing and pantomiming to "Le Grand Cerf."

With the use of head phones, Spanish students (left) listen for instructions as they begin to translate their assignment.

Department Adds Team Teaching, Mini-Computer

Team teaming and a mini-computer added new dimensions to our modern Math Department. Team teaching allowed enrolled students to gain a greater variety of information from their teachers, Mr. R. Lindhorn, Mr. M. Harmon, and Mr. J. Ramsey. The new mini-computer gave quick output which minimized student frustration, a major problem in the past years when students used the IIT teletype hookup for their math assignments.

Enrollment in the college bound courses and the advanced algebra courses declined in a reversal to last year's upward trend.

Ken Casaletto (above) uilizes the large board compass to construct a circle to help demonstrate his proof.

Theresa Serafino (right) stares in astonishment as Mrs. C. Tegge explains a complex mathematical problem.

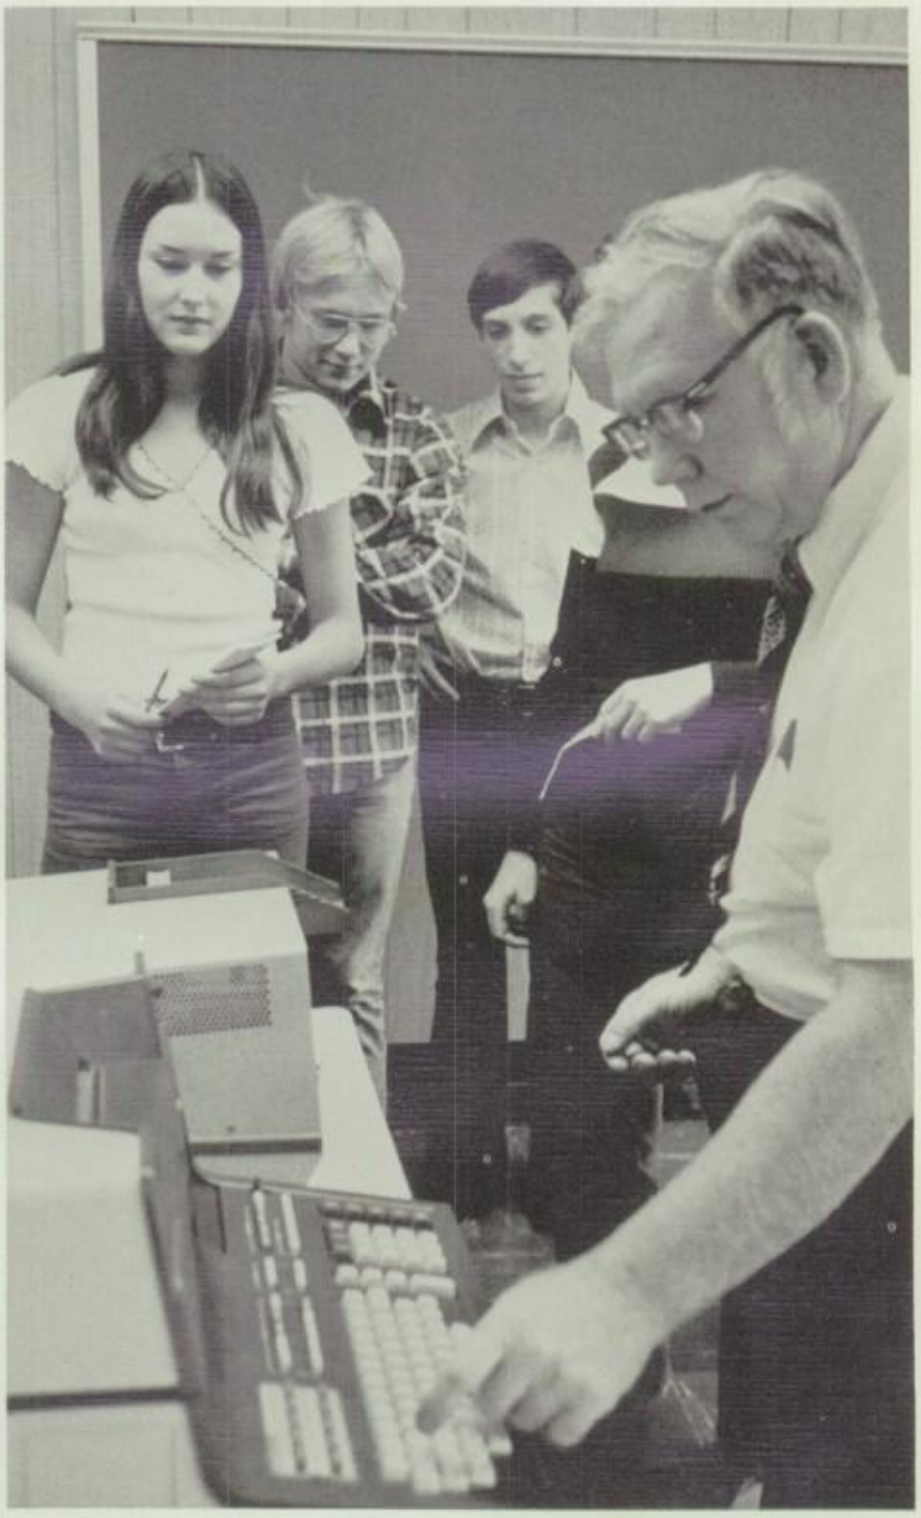
Mrs. C. Mashek (below, left) finds the overhead projector very helpful in explaining proof steps to her geometry class.



Concern Causes Change In Science's Curriculum

All natural science courses have incorporated environmental studies along with ecology in their daily curriculum because of the rising concern for our environment. Much material and many experiments now relate to this theme to make classes more meaningful and practical for today's changing world.

Overall, the Science Department's enrollment rose except for the earth science course, which in the past years students believed to be an "easy" course but have lately realized the abundance of involved work.

College Bound Students Tackle European History

European history, the social science course offering college credit, had a sharp rise in student interest which led to the department's refusal of several students' requests for admission. The course's sudden magnetism came as a result of the students' realization of the advantages of taking a college course in high school. Many social science teachers brought in guest speakers for their students. A notable speaker was a representative from Alcoholics Anonymous who spoke to Mr. J. Wilson's classes about the dangers of alcohol consumption.

Anna Clements (above) waits patiently as Mrs. J. Nemec looks up a date in ~~American~~ WORLD history.

Photography Experiences Sudden Rise in Interest

Participation in the fine arts program has rapidly been increasing. A notable increase occurred in the photography courses. Students who formerly relied on luck to produce above par pictures had the opportunity to be instructed on fine techniques of the art in any one of the several classes of major and minor credit. Other art classes witnessed similar enrollment increases. Besides the art of photography, many new students also had the opportunity to develop skills in pottery, painting, jewelry, dress design, and sculpture.

Music Students Engage In Extensive Activities

Six hundred and sixty students took part in the Music Department's activities this year. Participation ranged from the six concert presentations by the vocal and instrumental groups to the daily, preparatory practices. The choral groups also sang at Mooseheart Lodge in Wisconsin and at grammar schools throughout the area while the bands continued to march for Morton's halftimes and homecoming parade and Cermak Road's Houby Day Parade. The symphony orchestra provided students for the special Morton Chamber Orchestra.

Business Courses Offer Practical Job Experience

Since many students were or would eventually become employed, Morton prepared its students by offering courses designed to orientate them to the business world. One aspect of training was the cooperative education courses consisting of distributive education, diversified occupations, and vocational office occupations which gave students actual work experience in today's job market. The department also designed courses that enlightened students on the legal facets of business in their roles as consumers and employees during and after high school.

Home Economics Meets With Current Emphasis

With the recent emphasis on homemade products, many Morton students enrolled in an array of home economics courses. Girls made up the majority of the participants, but an increased amount of boys also became interested in this field. Courses placed an emphasis on participation and experience rather than straight bookwork. Students had the opportunity to cook, sew, knit, and crochet in the specialized courses. Another practical course was child development, which offered its members experience working with preschool children.

Industrial Arts Survey Explores the Vocations

Industrial Arts offered juniors and seniors a variety of vocational courses. These classes being two hours in length allowed students to earn two units of credits yearly. A popular vocational subject was auto mechanics. In this course students learned to repair and recondition autos with modern equipment and theory. Still popular among the lower level courses was industrial arts survey. Freshmen taking this course met with six areas of industrial arts so that they might decide on one of the areas for more advanced work as upperclassmen.

Junior and Senior Class Electives More Advanced

Physical Education, the department designed to keep students physically fit, presented courses to West's pupils in an enjoyable manner. Freshman and sophomore classes learned athletic skills in a diverse spectrum of offered activities. Junior and senior class electives moved toward more specific and advanced skills from those learned in their first two years of activities. But besides physical activities, students had instructions in health and hygiene, drivers education, home first aid, and home nursing including child care.

With the dawn of each day, teachers arrived at school in time for their first classes. The usual schedule of five classes a day included in addition all-school meetings, department meetings, and after school clubs and activities. The special work connected with the North Central self-evaluation which Morton underwent this past year added to their work load. And yet besides these regular duties, teachers reached out to students in need of special help during their free moments in the school day. Often many teachers even devoted their evenings and Saturday afternoons to helping out at playnights, car washes, homecoming floats, sport events, and music programs.

Dr. J. Ondrus Becomes Morton Superintendent

During this past year the Board of Education approved several new appointments to the administration for the Morton district. When Dr. J. V. Moon retired in October from the position of superintendent, the Board approved the appointment of Dr. J. Ondrus to the important district office. Dr. Ondrus then worked with the Board to select and prepare Mr. K. Keeling for the doctor's previous position as business manager. Finally, following the Board's approval, Dr. Ondrus welcomed at the beginning of the second semester Dr. H. Below as the district's new curriculum director.

Deans Encounter Daily a Small Student Minority

Besides dealing with the normal problems of discipline, absences, and tardiness, the deans also offered their services as a general information center for all students. Although the deans would enjoy working with all students, they commented, "We usually do not encounter the majority of students. The five percent that we do encounter project the wrong image of Morton West to the community and to the school." Dr. W. I. Hutchison and Mr. D. Ciner worked with the deans to keep Morton West a well functioning institution of secondary learning.

Reliable School Services Perform Functions Well

Although very much unnoticed, the school services staff played important roles at Morton. The cafeteria staff made well-balanced meals for students and faculty. The maintenance staff kept Morton's halls and classrooms clean for faculty, students, and visitors. The twenty-three secretaries assisted the administrators and department heads in their paper work. Mr. H. Olmstead and Mr. R. Hoffman kept students and faculty supplied with the necessary books and materials. The Medical Department administered physical examinations and gave medical attention to students.

CAFETERIA STAFF—FRONT ROW: M. Iwan, C. Bartosz, E. Stehlik, I. Martino, D. Simon, G. Lopata. SECOND ROW: G. Zid, F. Strejc, R. Citro, L. Havlik, A. Fechtmann, M. Radke, A. Czajka, V. Manak. BACK ROW: E. Zarlenga, M. Cleinmark, M. Lengert, M. Simek, R. Kvasincka, S. Konecny, L. Shimkus.

A sudden awareness came into light when freshmen entered Morton West for their first year. Many sophomores became involved in after school activities for the first time. Juniors not only continued to meet the challenges of everyday life but also began to look ahead. Future dreams became close to realities for senior students as they prepared for future careers and educations. Students faced fears, anxieties, and life's problems. Yet they saw meaningful relationships and talents developed. Understanding that the high school moments of life would become cherished, students struggled in hope of finding themselves and others and reassured themselves that these days of future passed would always be important to them.

Theresa,
Well - what can I say. From one crazy person to another: Good luck - Stay nutty! - The next 2 yrs are gonna be a gas only if you make 'em that way. So get going! Don't ever forget the spidd + Your fearless leader If you keep wishing you might get ma boyfriend - You a very nice kid - I hope the world doesn't corrupt you - Take Care Judy Hatos PARTY ON!

• SENIORS • SENIOR

Realizing that they had one year left of high school, the

Restless

seniors put their last efforts to use as they built a first place class car for homecoming. With this win to build on, the class then went on to co-sponsor the Ides of March Concert. Although many seniors had outside activities, such as jobs, many of them still found the time to get involved in the school. Senior Class members demonstrated leadership on the varsity teams, in the club program, and in the student government which served as a standard for the other classes to emulate. They may have been about the future ahead of them, but they worked well as a class to achieve all of their goals before leaving. They planned the Senior Breakfast which was served at Richard's and the Senior Class Night which was held at the Lexington House. The eager and senior students had a lot of good times to look back upon and remember as they received their diplomas during the graduation ceremonies on June 11.

Uncertain

Graduating

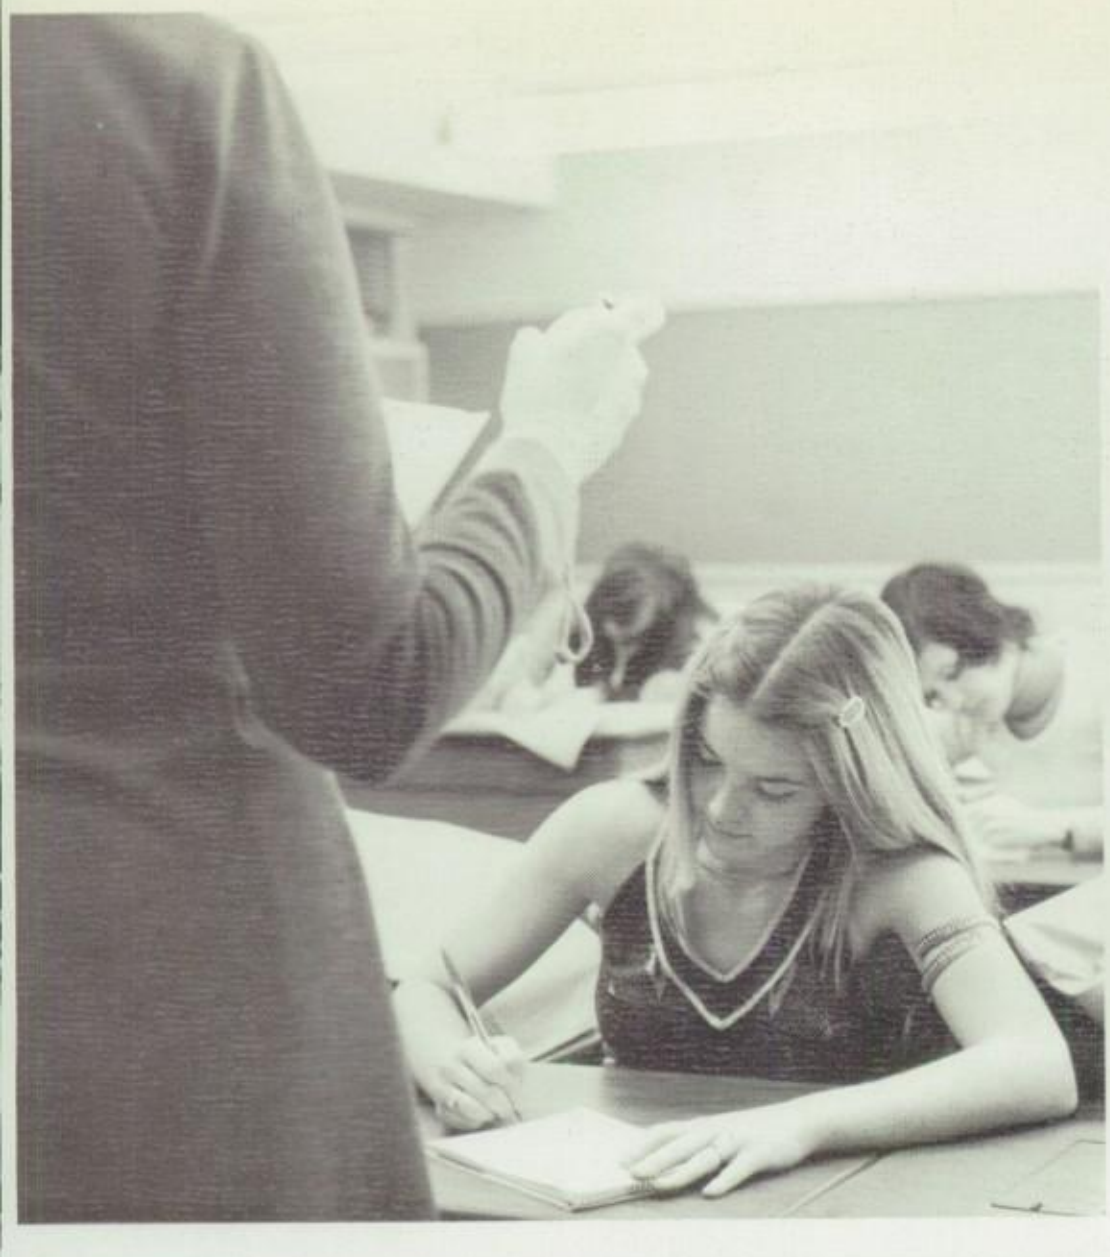
Seniors See Future in Planned College

Taking time out from a busy schedule, Rocky Ventre and junior Anne Appleyard (above) contemplate the future as they view the model of the perspective Morton College campus.

As part of preparing a film that she has photographed herself, Lisa Stepanek (right) edits the unwanted parts of the film and then splices the remaining parts together.



With speed and accuracy Patti D'Andrea (left) takes a dictation of a business letter while the constant reminder of being timed pushes her to a faster rate.

Toni Verest (below), like so many other students, finds that her locker warrants attention and that the early morning hours offer a good time for her to clean it.

Rough times were faced by the Junior Class this year when their class float fell apart on homecoming day. This, however, did not discourage the

Assertive

and imaginative juniors from reaching their goals for the year. Their first activity was being a co-sponsor of the Ides of March concert, held on November 3. Plans for class playnights and candy sales did not go unrewarded as the class yielded large monetary profits. As the juniors moved into the second nine weeks of the first semester, their thoughts moved to the future ahead as they planned to take the ACT, SAT, and PSAT tests for college entrance. With the tests past and indoor sports beginning, many juniors came to the basketball games to show their school spirit. With these events behind them, the next and most important decision to be made was about the 1974 Prom. A change in the traditional prom routine was an idea which interested many of the students. Hopes for pictures of the couples to replace the charm and mug gifts were among the ideas for change.

Cooperative

class officers and class members were the keys to the successes of the prom and an eventful third year.

During the Ides of March concert, Gina Albi (right) tries to persuade Jane Juricek to buy a souvenir poster as Karen Guisinger waits for other customers to approach the booth.

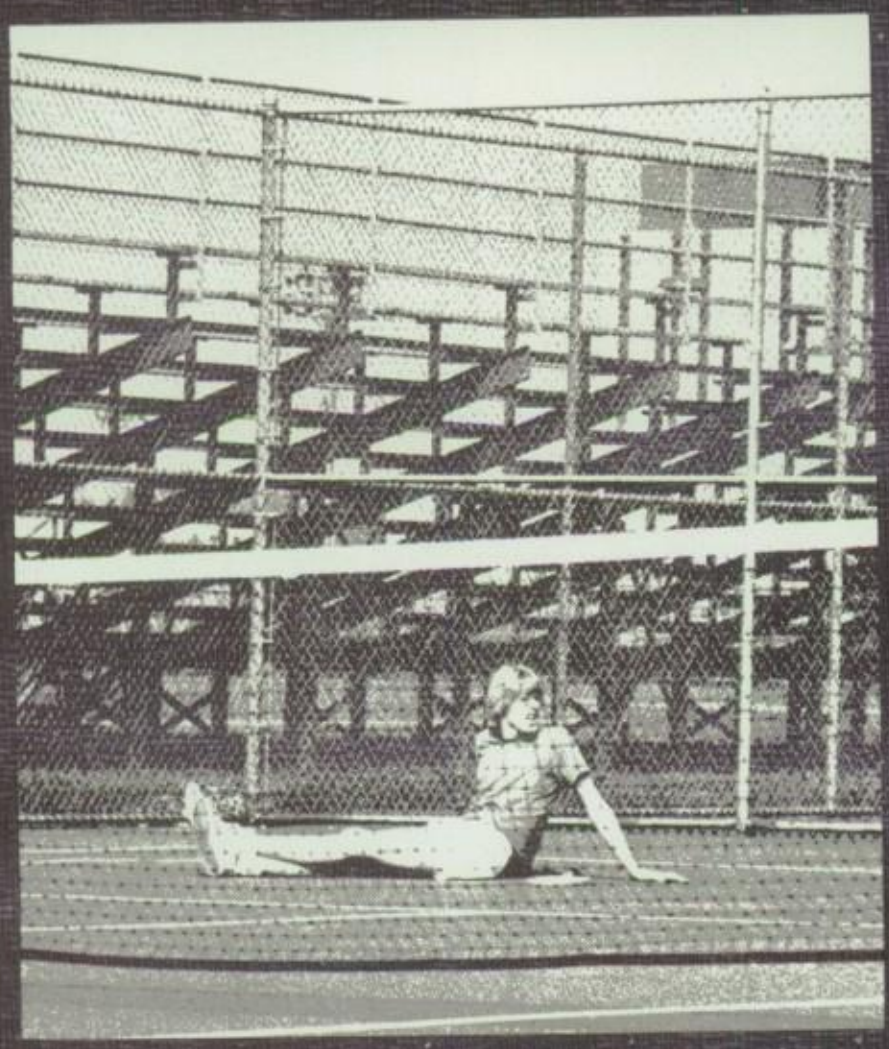
• SOPHOMORES • SO



With so much future ahead of them, the 858 sophomores found that they had plenty of things to which they might look forward. They anticipated this year well as they started the fall season off with the annual Sophomore Class splash party. As homecoming came closer and closer, the class found that they had no trouble in getting everyone to work. This showed that they were

Involved

With homecoming past and the satisfying thought of a second place win in the small float division in mind, they moved on to ideas for raising class money. They a candy sale, and they also worked at the Ides of March Concert by selling refreshments and posters. In addition, the sophomores later scheduled a sock hop and a playnight. The class continued to be a group of and interested students as the spirit of '76 thrived in anticipation of their two upcoming years at Morton.

Although involved with the dance step that they are doing, Janine Wagner and Lynn Rawers (right) still find themselves laughing at their unusual penguin feet.

SHMEN • FRESHMEN

FRESHMEN • FRES

Overwhelmed by the size of the school and the amount of homework given, 853 freshmen began to experience the everyday life of the 3,258 students enrolled at Morton West. Being of this new environment was a feeling that many freshmen felt at one time or another. As they adjusted to the atmosphere, the freshmen became involved and very

Skeptical

Spirited

They won the football at the first pep assembly proving that they had the most class spirit. As the spirit was on the uprise, so were the ideas for class sponsored activities. The cabinet thought of changing its playnight style to that of the fifties. Adding a band that played the music of that time was also a suggestion. Other suggestions from upperclassmen and faculty members influenced the class and prepared them for the years that were ahead. With so much going for them there was no way that the freshmen could fail to become an outstanding class.

At the start of the day, Mariann Belasick (right) has a last minute conversation with Lisa Kiener at her locker before they depart for first hour.

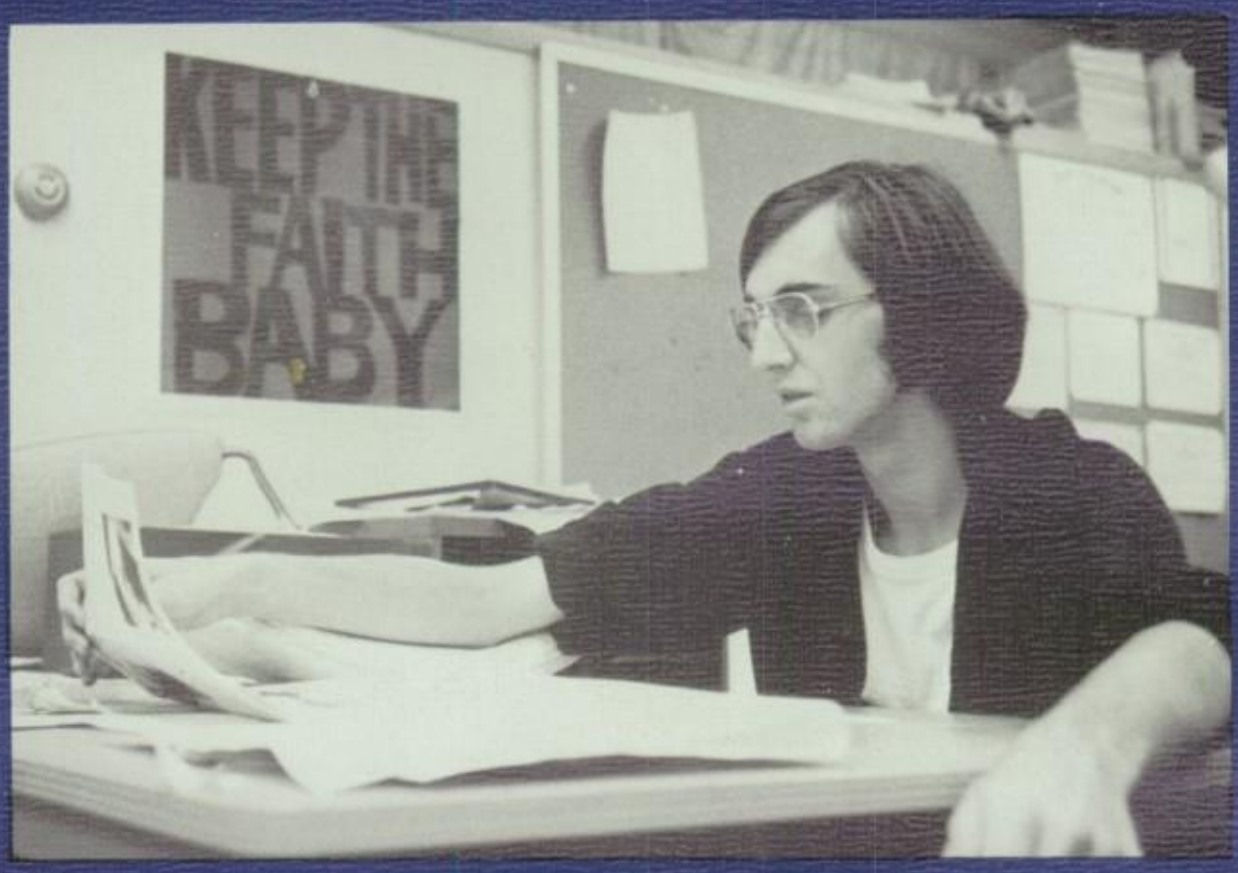
VITIES • ACTIVITIES

ACTIVITIES • ACTI



At the close of classes at 3:10, another part of school life began with the activity group meetings. Enthused and dedicated students sought the meeting places of clubs and other school organizations. For them, school and life in general gained a broader and more important meaning. But there were still those, the unwilling majority, who did not seek involvement in clubs. When asked if he felt there was a decline in club membership, Mr. R. Soucek, director of student activities, said, "Right now we are at the low point of interest. Some students would rather pay for their entertainment, than to gain experience through our clubs. Still there is a rejuvenation of student involvement going on." The clubs of Morton wait.

TALON Alters Feature Section to Student Life

Following the basic guidelines for yearbooking, the TALON staff strove to make this year's book unique from past editions by incorporating ideas from workshops that they attended during the summer with suggestions made from judging critiques on last year's Medalist winning book. The features section of the book was changed into a student life section which increased coverage on the daily life of the students. Members worked after school hours and had worknights before deadlines to make the finished product an incorporation of many hours and ideas contributed by the staff.

Mr. Stebbins Assists in Changing Falcon's Image

Mr. J. Stebbins, the Falcon's new adviser, took the challenge this year to revise its image. Members of the staff concentrated on producing a greater variety of news and feature articles along with using a greater number of editorials and letters to the editor.

The Latent Image Club's adviser, Miss A. Nelson, explained, "The purpose of the club is to expose members to new experiences in photography that are not feasible in class." These experiences enlarged members' capabilities and developed their skills in photographic endeavors.

Helping Fellow Students Role of Honor Societies

Members of the Junior Honor Society escorted freshman mothers on school tours during the PTO Freshman Mothers' Tea, posted the deans' list in the foyer, and distributed honor scroll cards. Pat Konwent, the Senior Honor Society president, regarded the two societies' cooperation in tutoring students who requested help quite successful. The Senior Honor Society also collected money at Halloween for UNICEF, sponsored the "Battle of the Bands," and held a banquet for its new members and all students who made the honor roll.

Service Projects Involve French and Czech Clubs

Besides the annual bake sales and splash parties, the French and Czech Culture Clubs were involved in worthwhile service projects this year. The French Club caroled at MacNeal Hospital during the Christmas season to lift the spirits of the patients. Using the money made through their activities, the Czech Culture Club donated to the Czech Language Department at the University of Chicago. The French Club also held as one of the main social events of the year the spring Mardi Gras, a result of elaborate club planning and preparations.

Language Clubs Join for First Halloween Festival

Homecoming's coronation night audience laughed at the entertainment of the German Club's "munchkins." The club also kept busy by planning three "fests": Oktoberfest, a harvest celebration; Faschingfest, a masquerade party; and Maifest, a springtime festivity. Another club interested in the culture behind a language was the Spanish Club. They studied Spanish movies and took a field trip to the Art Institute to see Mexican and Spanish art. Both clubs joined the other language clubs for an international Halloween party.

Student Governing Body Assumes New Structure

Student Council, as of May, 1973, took on a new look. It is now presently made up of three separate parts: the Student Union, the Social Activities Committee, and the Class Cabinets. The Student Union worked on projects such as the new student lounge. The Social Activities Committee concerned themselves with sponsoring social functions. These functions included homecoming, Junior Olympics, and the turnabout dance. The Class Cabinets continued with their traditional role of arranging class activities. All these organizations attempted to create more involvement with school activities for a larger number of students.

Peggy Schmidt and Sue Nelson (above, left) help the student government with the preparations for this year's turnabout dance by painting some decorations.

Checking her make-up, Shirley Hilk (left) gets into the Halloween spirit by dressing up as a mouse. MWSC sponsored this highly successful activity.

Ecology Club Considers Environmental Problems

Newly formed, the Ecology Club prepared several projects concerned with conservation, one of them being a recycling program for the entire school. Miss M. E. Schneider said, "The Ecology Club is here to stay. We now realize our role of man and his environment."

Another club concerned with the future was the Medical Careers Club. It was open to anyone interested in exploring the field of medicine. Field trips to various hospitals introduced members to new medical techniques and discoveries. The club also prepared Christmas decorations for the Loyola Hospital.

Covering boxes to be used for collecting paper for recycling, Ecology Club member, Lisa Kenny (above, right), watches as Miss M. Ripple applies finishing touches.

Aids Donate Their Free Time to School Library

Offering their help to ease the burden on the librarians, the Library Aids continued to help the school by donating their free time during the school day to shelve and check out books and magazines. Operating as a club, the aids held paperback book and bake sales to raise money for their spring party.

Primarily interested in gaining knowledge, the Philosophy Club held in-depth discussions on subjects of religion, music, art, and literature. Several field trips to the theater provided topics for further discussions.

Thespians Take Part in Easter Trip to London

Over Easter the Illinois Thespian Society sponsored a trip to London in which many Morton members took part. At the spring banquet both Thespian and Tech Guild members received awards for their outstanding performances and efforts. The Tech Guild consisted of students who worked 150 hours or more backstage on the various productions. Mr. T. F. Meyer felt that the students in the Tech Guild played an important part in all theater events, for the members operated the lighting, prepared scenery, and moved sets for all plays.

Choral Groups Perform For Local Organizations

Over five-hundred students participated in the Choral Department's activities this year to provide Morton with much enjoyment and pleasure. The various groups—Girls' Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Non-Freshman Mixed Chorus, Girls' Choir, and Aeolian Choir—sang at occasions such as the Christmas concert and assembly, the spring concert, and Pancake Day. The Aeolian Choir also gave a December program at the Mooseheart Children's Home and toured area grammar schools to give concerts. The Belles and Beaus, a group of specially selected singers, gave about fifty programs for schools, churches, and other organizations.

Band, Orchestra Groups Complete Busy Schedule

Morton's two bands and orchestra proved to have another busy season again this year. The bands marched in football half-time shows, the Houby Day Parade, and the East and West homecomings. Selected students also performed at solo and ensemble contests in March, and a few concert band members performed with the orchestra. The Morton District Symphony Orchestra, comprised of both East and West students, rehearsed daily for their concerts held in January and April. The three music groups also performed at the annual Pancake Day in March. This day and other activities provided funds for the music camp sessions to be held this summer in Wisconsin.

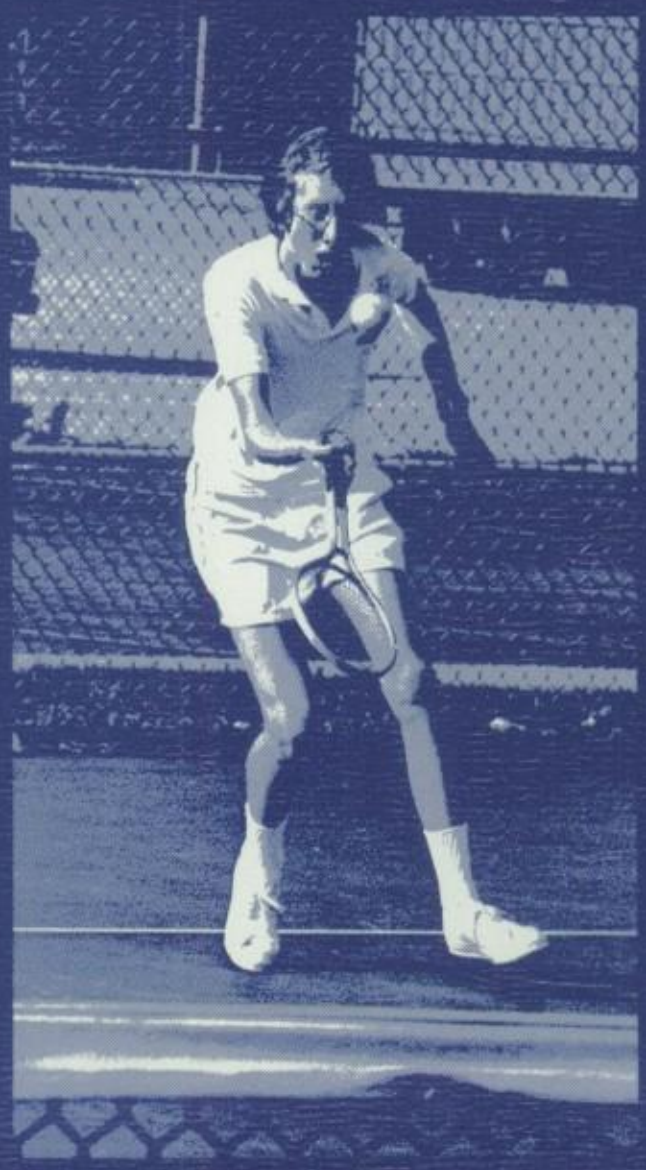
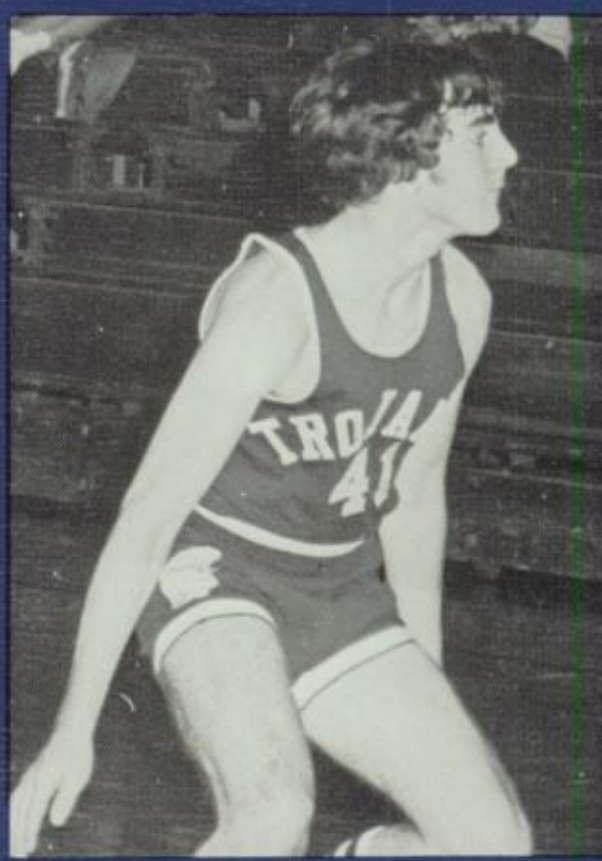
LETICS • ATHLETICS





ATHLETICS • ATHI

Late in the twilight hours, sports-minded students worked to gain perfection. Morton offered an athletic program which lasted throughout the fall, winter, and spring seasons. Boys competed in football, track, basketball, swimming, wrestling, baseball, golf, and tennis. Girls' competition in volleyball and gymnastics became a new aspect of the sports' picture. Team players and individual competitors practiced long hours and conditioned themselves for that big game or meet when they would face the opponents. Cheers and shouts from crowds and cheerleaders urged our athletes on toward winning. If they lost, they had learned to lose with grace; for they knew that they had tried their very best.

Homecoming Win Breaks Pair of Losing Streaks

The varsity football team broke a three game homecoming losing streak by beating Addison Trail 14-6. This win also broke the season's three game losing streak into which the team had fallen and lifted them out of a tie for last place. The team ended the season in fourth place with a record of four wins and four losses under the leadership of Head Coach J. Evan. Mr. Evan took the job from Mr. F. Duchon, who resigned at the end of last season. Coach Evan said that a poor turnout of eligible players cost the team a better finish.

JV's Take Third Place Berth With Hard Work

Hard work and a strong defense drove the junior-varsity football team to a good season. Coach R. Vashinko claimed that spirit supplied the team with the strength that makes a team powerful. The team, aided by the extinction of the sophomore team, placed third with five wins, two losses, and one tie.

Lacking the JV's success, the freshman football team finished in sixth place with three wins and four losses. According to Coach D. Matheny, the defense was powerful, and more discipline could have improved the team.

Varsity Wrestling Team Recruits Sophomore Aid

A lack of wrestlers forced the varsity team to recruit members from the sophomore team. With the underclass aid the team was successful in finishing the season in third place with three wins, three losses, and one tie. The sophomore team without those who were wrestling at the varsity level compiled a conference record of one win, five losses, and one tie to finish the season in sixth place. Showing great promise, the freshman grapplers, led by Rich Stolz, took second place with a four, two, and one record in the Des Plaines Valley League.

Martin, Olson Finish in Top Ten at State Meet

With Bob Olson, Jim Martin, and Pat Sheehan leading the way, the varsity swimmers captured second place with eight wins and three losses. Divers Jim Martin and Bob Olson finished second and fifth, respectively, in diving at the state meet. Pat Sheehan placed eleventh in the state breast stroke competition. Freshman Dave Krev, who broke several records at the sophomore level, led the sophomore swimmers to a six and five record for a third place finish. The freshman team finished in second place with six wins and six losses.

Berndt Finishes Fifth in DPVL Individual Scoring

Lacking experience, the varsity basketball team could not compile a winning season. Uneffected by the efforts of captains Mike Romano and Chuck Blazek, the team finished with a record of three wins and eleven losses to place last in the league. However underclass members showed some hope for the future. Junior Bill Berndt, the team's most valuable player, placed fifth in the conference in scoring with 235 points. Other outstanding players were sophomores Jon Abram and Bill Bihun who often broke into the starting lineup.

JV's Victorious in Double-Overtime Game

For the junior-varsity basketball team, a double overtime victory over Willowbrook highlighted the season. Valdis Bole, the team's most valuable player, led the squad to third place with eight wins and six losses.

Dedication and hard work kept the sophomore cagers fighting for victory. Coach R. Harb's forces played with spirit and finished in fifth place with a four and eight record.

Coach R. Vashinko stressed fundamentals of defense in preparing the freshman basketball team for varsity play. The team won four and lost eight for a seventh place finish.

Mike Vitek (below, right) hustles around third base in an effort to score on the play. A lack of runs was one of the problems that confronted the varsity baseball team.

Varsity Hopes Succumb To Lack of Clutch Hits

Unable to get clutch hits, the varsity baseball team lost six one-run games. The team, coached by Mr. G. Martin, finished in fifth place with four wins and ten losses. An early season loss to Glenbard East proved to be the downfall of the season. The team having won two games prior was demoralized by the defeat. Comprised of nearly fifty per cent juniors, the team lacked experience and leadership and lost in its second game of the state meet. Tom Eukovich, who was honored as the team's most valuable player, and Dave Hehn placed on the Des Plaines Valley all-star team.

Stimac Hurls No-Hitter, Displays Pitching Ability

Lacking timely hitting and good defense, the sophomore baseball team lost four one-run decisions. The pitching efforts of Dan Sifrar and Phil Colonero helped the team end the season with a record of eight wins, eight losses, and two ties, which was sufficient for a third place berth. Sifrar also supplied much of the offense for Coach R. Hahn's crew.

Steve Stimac threw a no-hitter against Hinsdale South and proved valuable to the defense of the freshman baseball team. Ken Casaletto, Roger Tufo, and Steve Vrdsky led the offensive attack with batting averages above .300. The team ended the season in fifth place with a record of five wins and nine losses.

Topping all of Morton's previous records, the varsity tennis team, coached by Mr. C. Prazak, won the DPVL championship with a record of seven wins and no losses. Bob Finder took first in first singles of the league meet. The doubles team of Mike Baetz and Mike Kolb went undefeated in conference play.

The frosh-soph team finished the season's conference play with a record of five wins and two losses. Scott Stanley placed second in the DPVL meet in first singles as Jon Abram and Bill Bihun also took second in doubles.

The team finished fourth in the sectionals missing qualification for the state meet by one stroke. Coached by Mr. D. Verdeyen, the team took first place in the conference with a record of six wins, no losses, and one tie.

The frosh-soph golfers recorded four wins and three losses to place third in the league. Tim Wesbey took the individual championship at the Des Plaines Valley League Tournament.

Two Trackmen Place in Top Five in State Meet

In DPVL meets the cross-country and track teams placed at opposite ends in the standings. The varsity track team won the conference championship and placed more athletes in state competition than ever before in Morton's history. Paul Proffitt took third in long jump, and Gary Reimus placed fifth in the shot put. The varsity cross-country team did not enjoy the same success. The team finished with a record of one win and seven losses. Mike Bulster finished tenth out of fifty-five runners in the meet for the Des Plaines Valley League.

Large Turnout Enhances Frosh-Soph Track Team

Morton's sophomore track and cross-country teams gave respectable spring and fall performances in track and field events. The cross-country team finished third in the league with a record of six wins and two losses. The members participated in races which ranged from two to three miles with Miller's Meadow Forest Preserve serving as their home track. The Frosh-Soph Track team enjoyed one of its biggest turnouts in the history of Morton. Bob Conner and Jim Kopkowski showed great potential for success at the varsity level by finishing first and second, respectively, in the Des Plaines Valley League Conference Meet.

Girls Participate in Two New Athletic Activities

With the addition of two activities, the scope of girls' athletics widened at Morton. The girls' volleyball team consisted of seventeen girls playing at two team levels. Although there was not much student support from the school, the team did well in their first year with a record of three wins and three losses. The newly-formed Baton Twirling Club marched in the homecoming parade to begin their activities. With hopes of performing at pep assemblies, the twirlers prepared costumes and organized routines at their regularly scheduled club meetings.

M-Club Emerges Victor In Game Against Faculty

With adviser Mr. R. Vashinko at the helm, the M Club defeated the faculty basketball team by a score of 26-22 in the annual M Club-Faculty basketball game and ended a ten game losing streak. The club also sponsored a hospitality room at all home football games.

The Booster Club aimed their services not only at selling refreshments and keeping fans happy at basketball and football games but also at beautifying the planter area beneath the A-Hall stairs. The girls felt that maintaining these plants might end the problem of careless students throwing trash in the area.

During the M Club sponsored playnight, Steve Kriz and Ed Kalfas (left) along with the other members of the group Mile High perform for an attentive audience.

At a home track meet, Track Aids Cathy Battaglia and Linda Spolar (below) give a timing to a visiting coach.

Since the proper recording of swimming time is vital, several Swim Maids (below, right) time a swimmer.

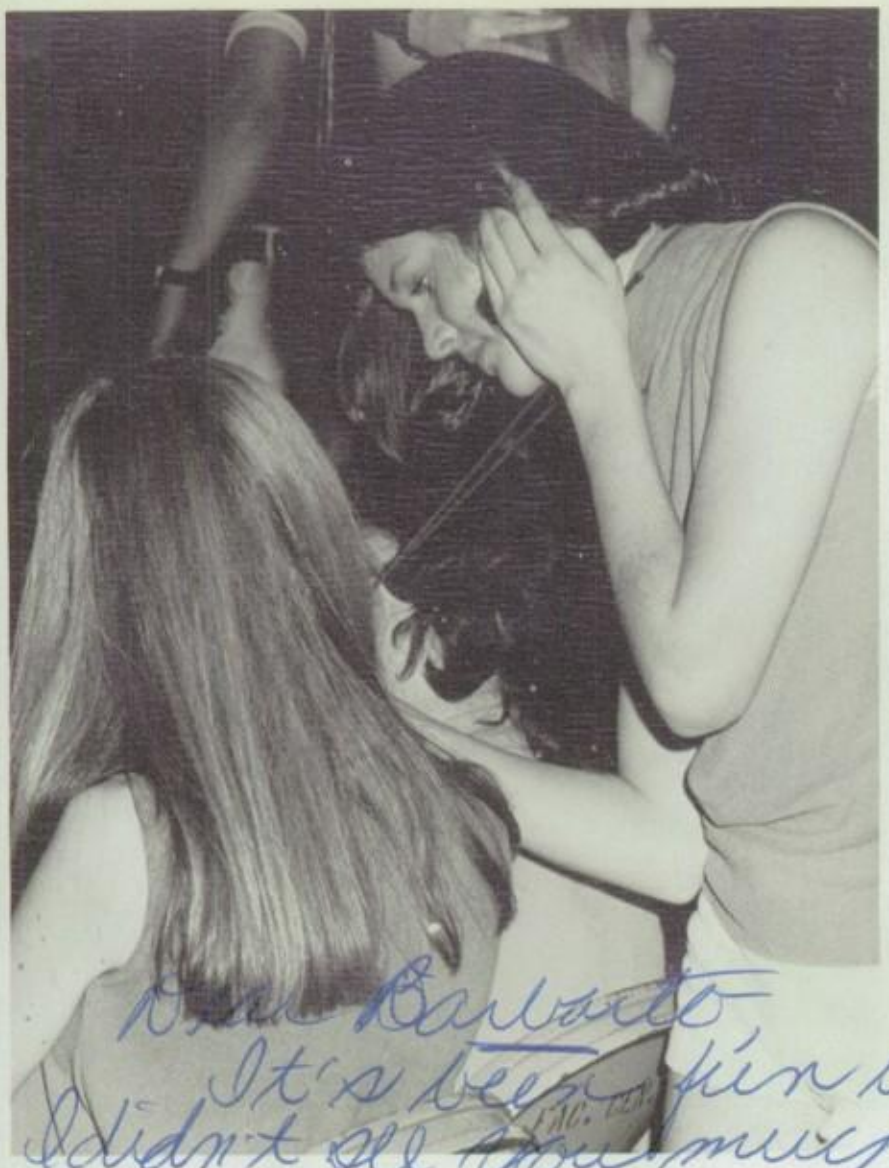
Aid Groups Valuable to Teams at Home Meets

Under the supervision of Mr. G. Busse, the Track Aids worked to make home track meets run smoothly. Mr. Busse stated that the girls' services were "invaluable" as he would have been "burdened without their help."

As well as timing and scoring, the Swim Maids tried to arouse crowd spirit at swim meets. The girls participated in a swim-a-thon which supplied them with an income.

The Wrestling Aids sold buttons in support of the wrestling team. The girls recorded scores and times for home wrestling meets.



Concerned with the times of the team's swimmers, Swim Maid Patti Krystinak (left) carefully offers her results to another maid for an accurate recording.

Several members of the Wrestling Aids (below) observe a match. These girls took the responsibility of posting scores efficiently at all home wrestling meets.

Pom Pon Squad Initiates New 'Alternate' System

Hoping that they might boost spectator interest and the spirit of Morton's teams, the cheerleaders attended summer clinics to improve their cheering abilities. The girls received new sweaters in January from the Athletic Department which handles their expenses.

Twenty-four regulars and three alternates went through a series of workshops and tryouts to become members of the Pom Pon Girls. Mrs. M. Trybus initiated the 'alternate' system this year to insure that twenty-five girls would be able to perform at all times.

GAA Members Compete For State Bowling Title

For the average girl interested in sports, the GAA offered a good chance to enter into competition in bowling, track, volleyball, badminton, and archery. During the winter, five of its members entered into the finals of the state bowling tournament in Peoria.

The Lifesaving Club, advised by Miss C. Gilbertsen, earned money by supplying lifeguards for organizations such as boy scout and girl scout troops using the pool. The club participated in the lifesaving demonstration given annually to the girls' gym classes.

Striving to become more expressive in dance, Modern Dance Club members labored to perfect their dancing skills under the leadership of Mrs. R. Hammack. The club staged a show in March to display their skills.

Increase in Participation Results in Active Clubs

Many returning and several new members increased active participation in three clubs. The Gymnastics Club scheduled several clinics to help participants to perfect their tumbling and apparatus skills. Swim Club showed an improvement which resulted from tightening membership requirements thereby allowing the club to drop uninterested members. More enthused and active members helped to make the seven trips that Ski Club took to Wilmot successes. By cutting back on transportation costs, the club made trips available to more students interested in skiing.

Pausing between classes, a student (left) enjoys the warm weather and fresh air of the outdoors.

After the rush of changing classes, a hall guard (below) relaxes in the solitude of the class hour.

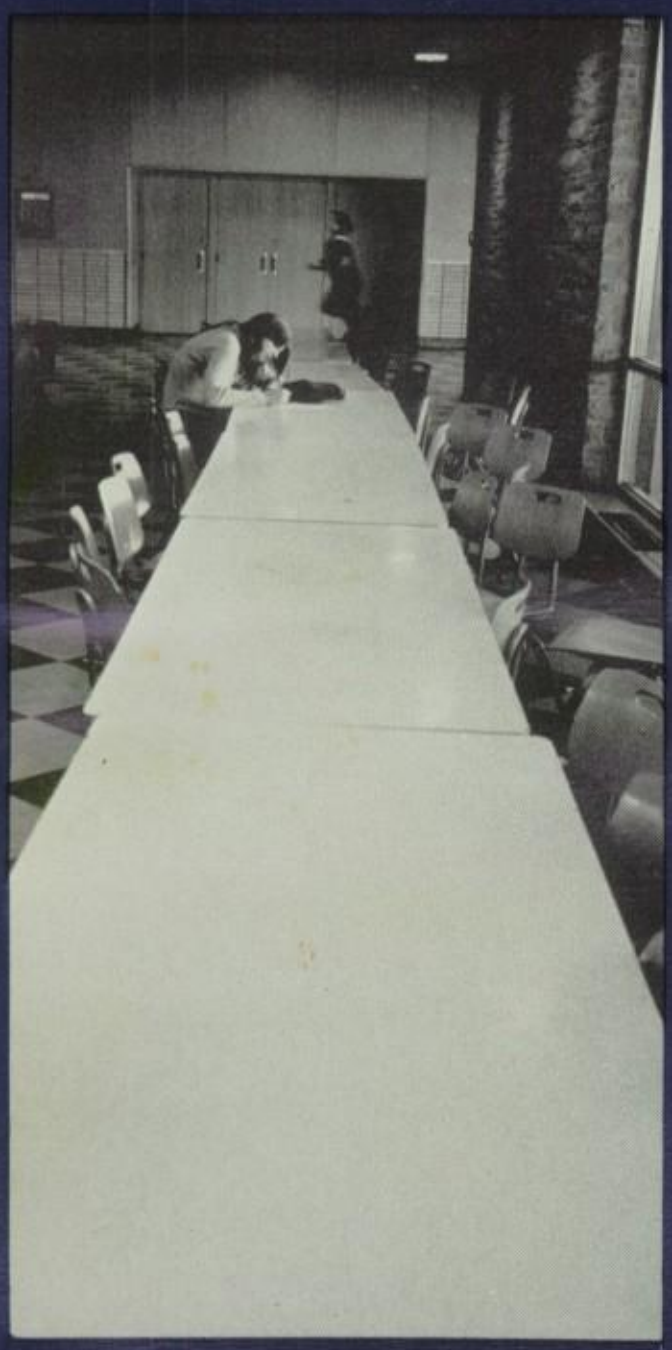
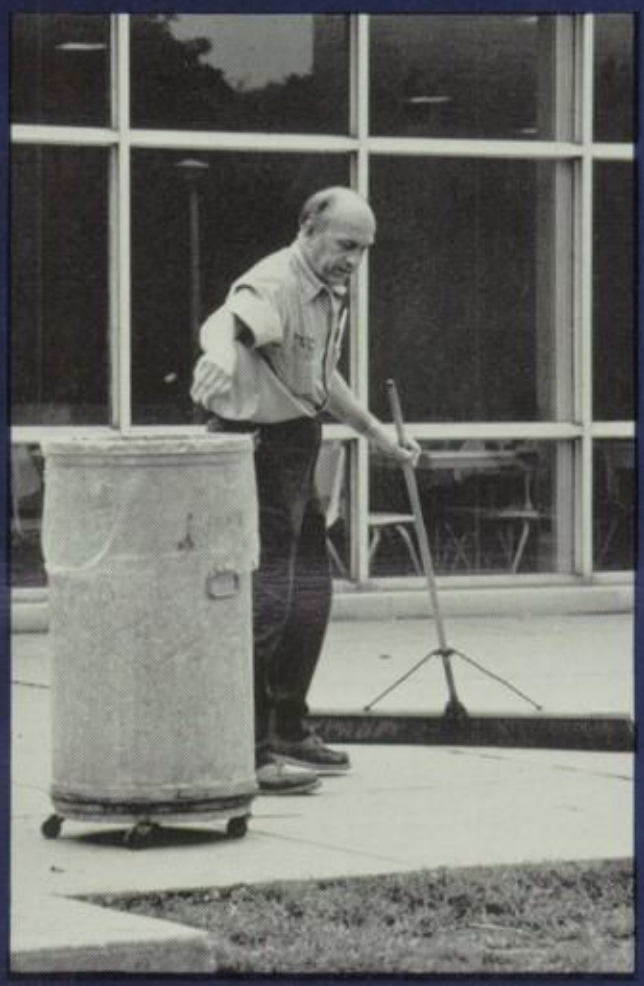
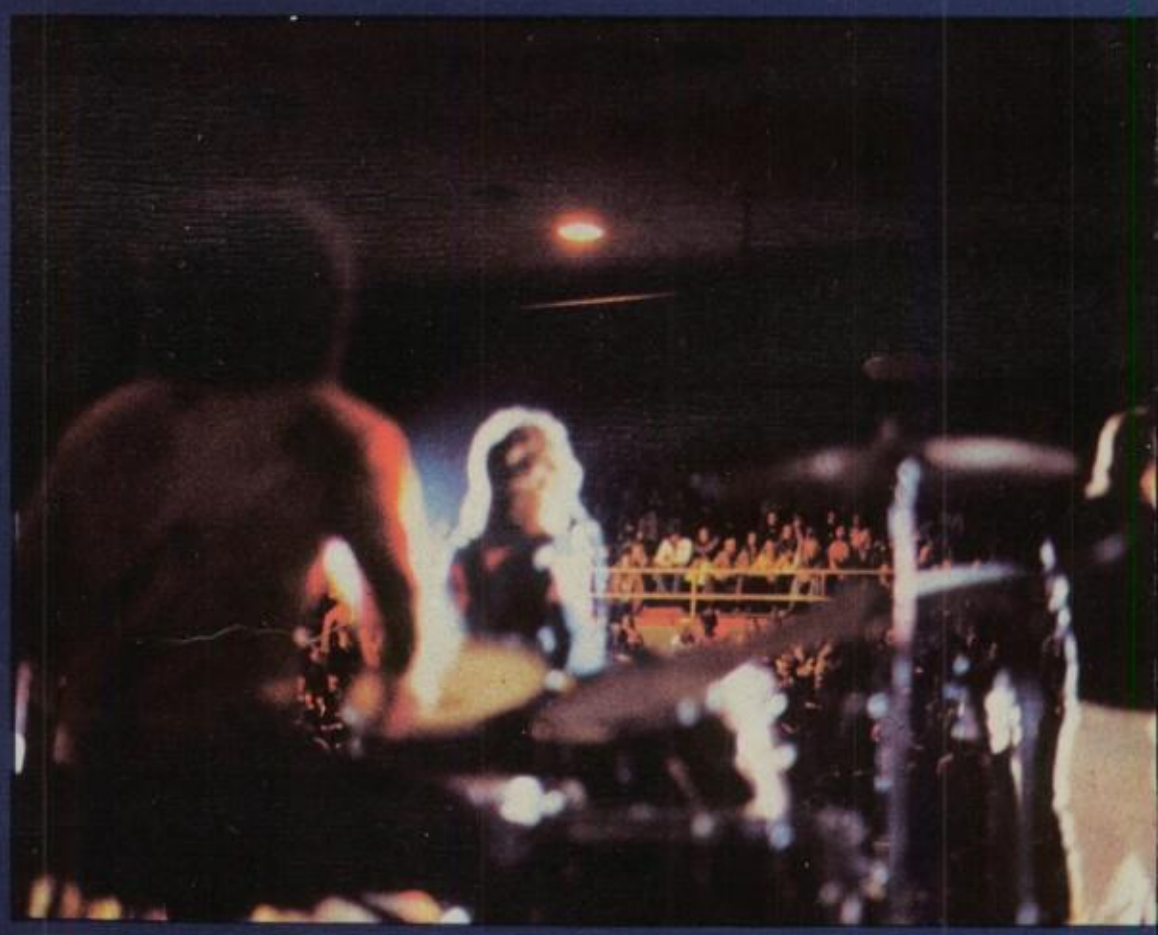
• TWILIGHT • NIGHT



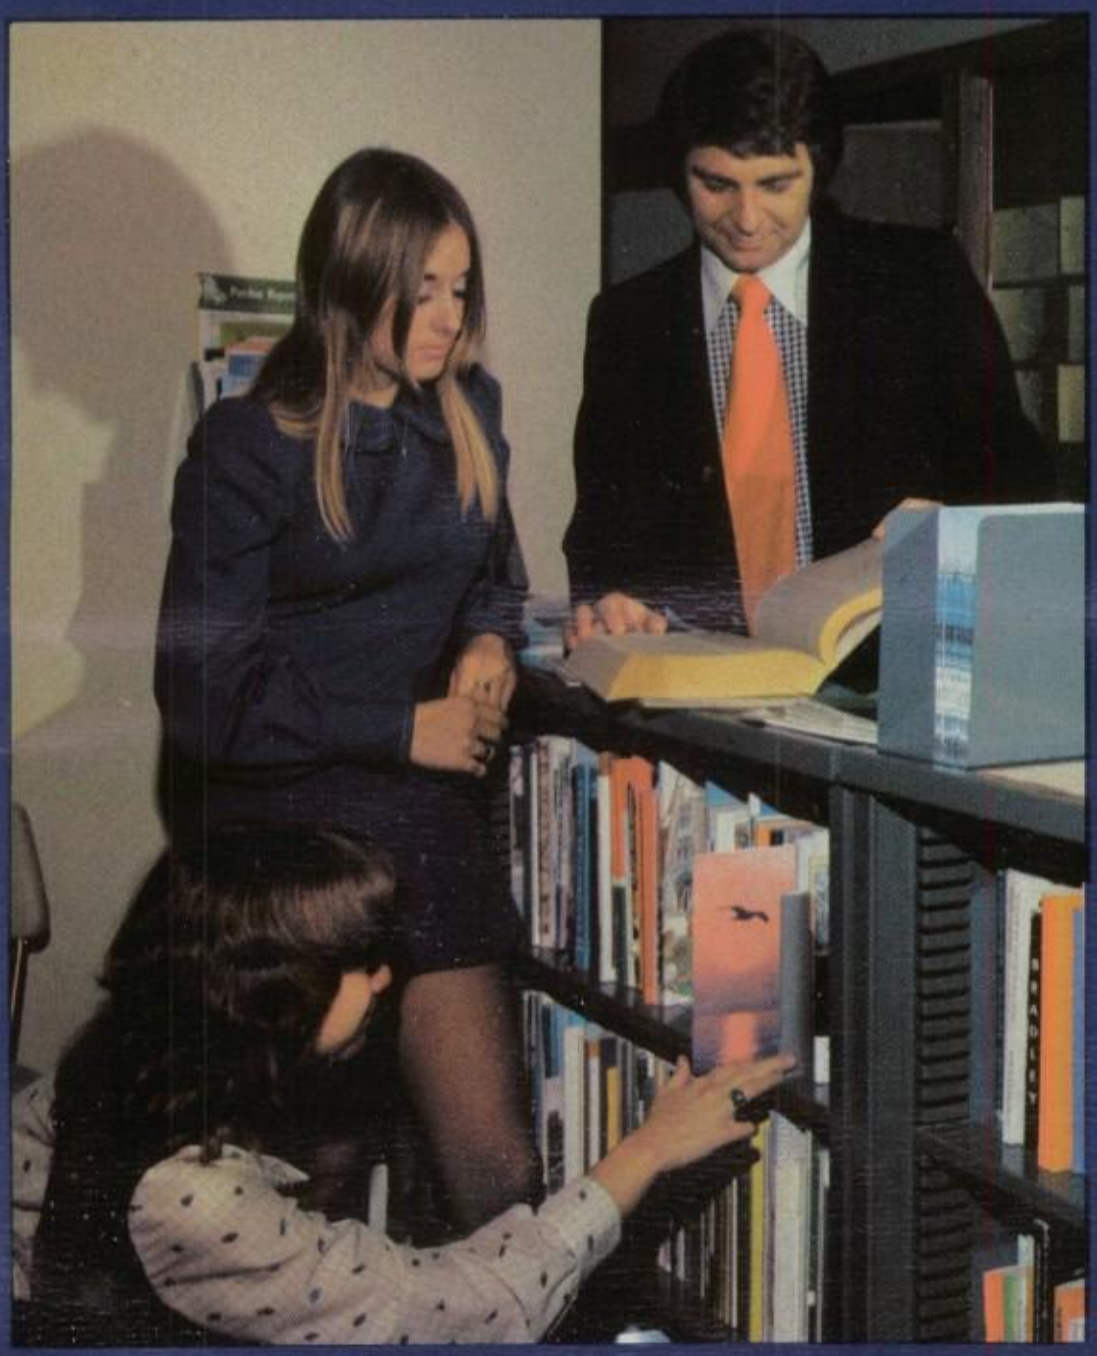


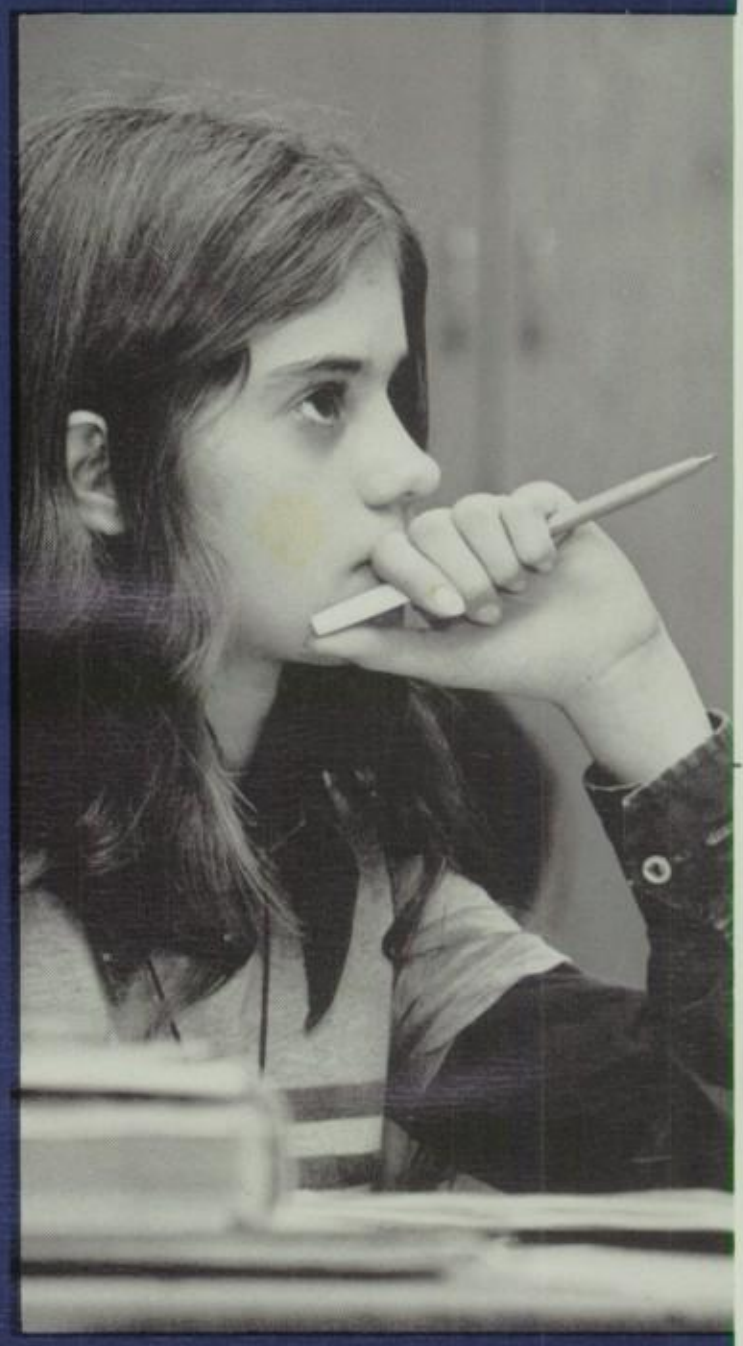


• TWILIGHT • NIGHT

Glistening rays of sunlight
Fade slowly from the aging sky
As dark thoughts are surrounded
By neon lights;
Nature slows its hurried pace
And prides herself
On the completion of another day.
The preparation begins once more
As thoughts of the future
Flow fluently into mind,
Knowing that night will pass
And tomorrow is moments away.

TOMORROW • TOMO





Living now
For each treasured moment
Brings about a realization
That the past cannot be changed
And the future is what matters.
Striving each day
To answer questions
Of an uncertain destiny,
The present looks back upon
A procession of the past
Which must be acknowledged
To make the molds of the future.

Theresa,

Its been fun having you in homeroom all these years. (2) wow. I don't have to say I hope I'll see you next year cause I will. Hope you have a nice summer. Stay cute and sweet as always. See you next year.

Love
Carol Cummins

Dear Theresa,

It was a blast having you in gym. I hope to have you in another class. Your a cute chick + I know you'll get lots of guys. Have a great summer + future. Be good + stay out of trouble. See ya around.

Love,
Sue
Batka

Theresa,
It's been really nice having you in English. It's sadly gonna be weird without you around next year. I hope I'll be in a class with you next year. Having you around really brightened up my year. And I hope you and Nettie come find me sometime up my brighten up my summer... 788-5537
Take care and Be Good.

Dear Teresa,
Your about the craziest kid I know -
But stay that way
You cool.
Ljubinka

P.S. Good luck next year -

Theresa.
It's been having you in my 3rd & 6th yr.
You are really a sweet kid. I hope we stay friends then the next 2 years. Good luck in everything you do.
Be Good.
Love.
